Itineraries

Saigon riding and dining tour

17:00 pm pick you up at your hotel
Our trip will start in the backpacker District of Pham Ngu Lao where we will have a short briefing on the night activities and then make our way over to District 4. From the other side of the canal you will see the contrasts of lifestyle of central Saigon and it's outer edges. We will proceed across another bridge to catch the sunset over the rapidly growing city centre.
Following the beautiful views of the Saigon river observe high end and legendary hotels. Also pass by the statue of Tran Hung Dao, the most legendary Vietnamese general. Continue our journey to District 2, we will stop at Thu Thiem bridge to take a photo, our first food stop will be at a street stall that serves many kind of BBQ.
Crossing District 1 we will make a stop at one of the best meatball Banh Mi stands the city has to offer. The sandwich is so successful the owner opens at 3pm and usually sells out before 8. You will have to wait in line, but trust me, it'll be worth the wait.
Next stop is a restaurant that serves up traditional Vietnamese dishes, including delicious glutenous rice cakes dressed with different meets, peanuts and leafy green seasonings.
Crossing over into Chinatown (district 5) we will stop by an 80 year old institution in Saigon. Here several traditional sweet snacks will be served for all to sample. Everything from sweet custards to fresh fruit in succulent syrups. It's a great way to cap off an evening of the many savoury meat delights.

From District 5 the trip will take us down the popular shopping street of Nguyen Trai street and back to your hotel

Food stops we did, was also nice and my favorite is the last stop for the desert (cannot remember the name but its like a caramel cake with coffee, ice, coconut milk!!!so yummy!) flower market was so colorful as well! The four ladies were brilliant, informative and really friendly. Learnt a lot and my wife said it was more like being shown around by friends than a tour company. Highly recommended!

Nothing like seeing a city than being guided by awesome locals!

We had two amazing tour guides who were so friendly and welcoming. They told us heaps of cool information about the city and really made us feel like friends. My husband wasn?t keen on the tour to begin with because he preferred the idea of exploring the city ourselves but once we were half way through he said this was the best thing we could have done and there was no way we could have explored the city like this on our own. Definitely a must do in Ho Chi Minh!
